

Introducing collection course ordering

2024-02-29 - Ester Andersson - Product Highlight

We are thrilled to unveil an exciting new feature: the ability to arrange courses within collections. This enhancement empowers you to provide your learners with a structured roadmap for their educational journey. Now, you can prescribe a recommended course completion sequence, ensuring a smooth and logical progression through your learning program.

Whether certain courses must be tackled in a specific order to meet prerequisites or to optimize comprehension, or if arranging them simply streamlines the learning path, this feature offers clarity for learners as they can now navigate through your content with confidence, knowing the optimal sequence to follow.

To order courses within a collection, go to the collection page and use the + and - to arrange the order.

The screenshot displays the 'Catalog builder' interface for a collection titled 'New at Learnifier'. The collection is currently set to 'Not visible to learners'. Under the 'Courses' section, three courses are listed with their order numbers: 1 (Preboarding), 2 (Onboarding), and 3 (Cyber-security training). A green arrow points to these order numbers, highlighting the reordering functionality. Each course entry includes a minus sign, the order number, a plus sign, a course thumbnail, the course name, a lock icon, an 'Active' status indicator, and a trash icon. On the right side, there is a 'Collection settings' button and a 'Visibility: Active' indicator. A 'Categories: No categories selected' message is also visible. A 'Go to' dropdown is located at the top left, and a 'Catalog builder' button is at the top center. A pink banner with the text 'Get the Learn Leads' and an ice cream cone icon is positioned on the right side of the interface.
