Course Selection: More choice, less administration

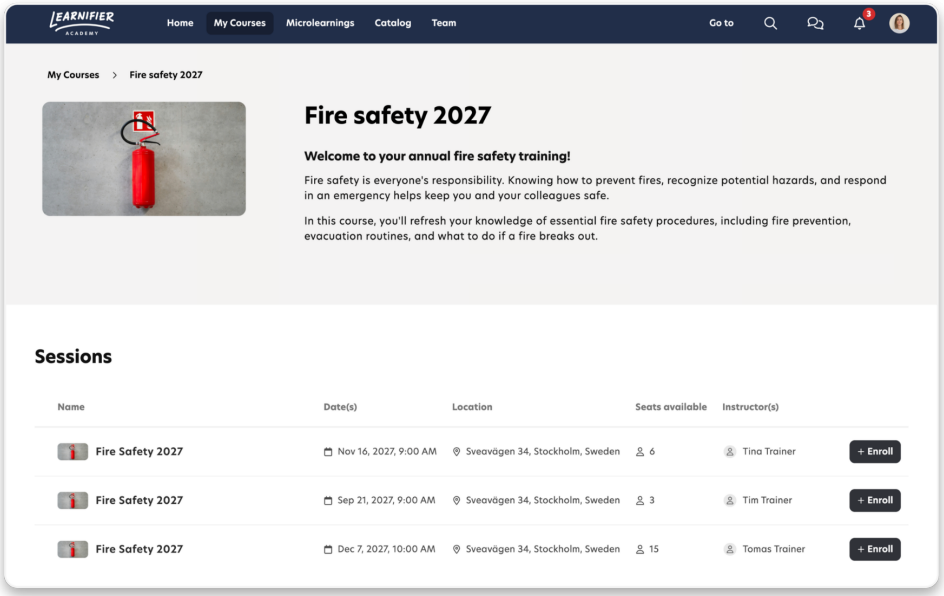

2026-11-06 - Gabriella Eriksson - Product Highlight

Managing training with multiple courses or sessions just got easier.

With the new Course Selection feature, you can group several options into one selection and let learners choose the course or session that suits them best.
Managers can also make selections on behalf of their team members, while administrators manage participants, communication, and settings in one place.

Course Selection can be assigned in the same ways as any course, for example through automations or direct invitations, and can also be made available through the Course Catalog or a self-registration link.

Less manual coordination for administrators, more flexibility for learners and managers.

Available to: Professional & Enterprise

Learn how to work with course selections here