Microlearning: Fast, focused, effective

2026-03-25 - Gabriella Eriksson - Product Highlight

Learning doesn’t have to take long.

Microlearning makes it easier to learn in the flow of work, with short, focused learning units that are quick to complete and easy to return to.

To support this, we’ve updated how you can work with microlearning in Learnifier. You now get a dedicated microlearning section, along with the ability to surface selected resources as standalone learning units.

This makes it easier to offer short, focused learning without building full courses. Instead, you can make individual resources available as their own learning activities and distribute them more flexibly.

In practice, this means you can:

- organize microlearning in a clear, dedicated section
- publish individual resources as standalone learning units
- make it easier for learners to quickly access relevant content

Microlearning is especially effective when time is limited:

- Fits into a busy day

  Short lessons are easy to complete between tasks or meetings

- Easy to access

  Available directly in the platform, without enrolling in a course

- Easier to complete

  Short, focused content feels manageable and increases completion

- Better retention

  One concept at a time makes it easier to remember and apply

Works well for:

- Leadership development

  Quick lessons on giving feedback, coaching, or running effective meetings

- Sales enablement

Short refreshers on product features or handling common objections

- Onboarding reinforcement

  Follow-up tips and reminders after initial onboarding

- Compliance

  Short updates and recurring reminders to keep knowledge up to date

Ready to make learning more flexible, engaging, and easier to fit into the workday?
Contact your Customer Success Manager or support@learnifier.com for next steps.

Microlearning is available as an add-on for Starter, Professional, and Enterprise plans.